Eclipse BOF

Jeff McAffer

Eclipse has become one of the most widely used Java development environments. Its tooling platform is also the basis for a wide range of tools that you may use today or not even know about. Beyond that, Eclipse is a runtime that includes a wide range of support for rich client applications and OSGi-based component systems. This BOF is a chance for current Eclipse runtime and tooling users and those just curious to see what its all about to get together with some of the Eclipse development team to talk about current usecases, missing features, hidden capabilities, future directions and the development plans for Eclipse 3.2.
