BoardReport-October2009

October 2009 Board Report

Activity in the Velocity project has been quiet in the past few months. There have been a handful of commits and no new releases since the last report in May. Mailing lists are low traffic but still active with about a message a day. All questions are promptly replied to by one of the active committers or others in the community.

The Velocity project currently has no board-level issues at this time.