Dojo Builds/Inclusion

Done(01/23/06) The dojo javascript library has been incorporated into the tapestry core, at least initially under a new directory structure in

```
framework/src/js

. An ant build.xml file as well as a requisite dojo profile script have also been created. It is unclear whether these builds should be included directly in subversion, or be a required step for anyone creating a tapestry.jar package. The latter seems less friendly as it will require another outside dependency for building, which is what the new move to maven2 should theoretically be trying to solve. (among other things).
