Random Thoughts

[RT] are Random Thoughts. They are tradition in the Avalon community. RTs are basically long and thought-provoking mails with new project propositions, that are discussed and scrutinized at length. One distinguishing characteristic about RTs is the complete and utter lack of consistency with respect to quality: some are pure crap, others are pure genius. Even the original author of a RT is not sure which category any given posting falls into at the time it is issued. These postings are no exception.
