Contributing

We welcome contributions to the httpd documentation wiki.

In order to contribute you must create an account on the wiki and login and send a request for access to the documentation project mailing list.

We encourage contributors to subscribe to the Wiki Changes List to help ensure the quality of the contributions.

If you wish to discuss changes made to the wiki, please use the Documentation Project mailing list.

A few basic guidelines to follow:

* External links are acceptable if they add substantial value, but do not link to your own site or otherwise seek private benefits from external links.
* If one of your contributions is reverted or changed, do not put it back without first discussing the issue on the Documentation Project mailing list. Revert wars will not be tolerated.
* Final authority for the content of this wiki belongs with the participants in the Documentation Project and, ultimately, the HTTP Server Project Management Committee.

Have fun and thanks for contributing!
