

CollisionAvoidance

Calendar of events overlapping an ASF Presence

In scheduling ApacheCon, the planners go to great lengths to avoid conflicting with other shows, in calendar and/or geography.

The shows below have some historical presence by speakers and committers, or simply attract a similar audience, which may detract from ApacheCon attendance and a successful event. We include ApacheCon events which have been calendared to show them in relation to other events.

That said, this list of conferences is by no means a guarantee that the ApacheCon event can or will avoid every conflict listed below, or that this is in any way an endorsement of events listed below. The keys to choosing overlap are (1) is this a developer-focused event, and (2) do that set of developers rely on ASF software in their development. Open Source v.s. Closed Source is a secondary concern when avoiding conflicts, it's the end users whom we are concerned for.

In addition to this list, there's a calendar that holds the list of scheduled Apache events maintained by ConCom at <http://community.apache.org/calendars/conferences.html>. Lanyrd can also be a good way to track upcoming conferences, see <http://lanyrd.com/search/?context=future&q=apache>
