Mailing List Participation

The following plot (courtesy of Gmane), shows the steadily increasing post rate for `cassandra-user` during 2009. Note: There are two mailing lists (-user and -dev), but most traffic goes to -user regardless of topic.

Code Contributions

This plot shows the estimated number of unique contributors on a week-by-week basis.

Similar to the plot above, this shows unique contributors, but broken down by month instead of week.

Committership / PPMCship

The following membership changes have occurred in the time since the projects initial setup.

| | Date | PPMC? |
|-----------------|------------|-------|
| Jonathan Ellis | 2009-03-26 | Yes |
| Eric Evans | 2009-06-29 | Yes |
| Jun Rao | 2009-06-29 | Yes |
| Chris Goffinet | 2009-10-05 | Yes |
| Johan Oskarsson | 2009-11-19 | No |
| Gary Dusbabek | 2009-12-16 | No |
| Jaakko Laine | 2009-12-16 | No |

That is, 7 new committers ¹ in a little over 9 months ², more than half of which have been added to the PPMC.

Releases

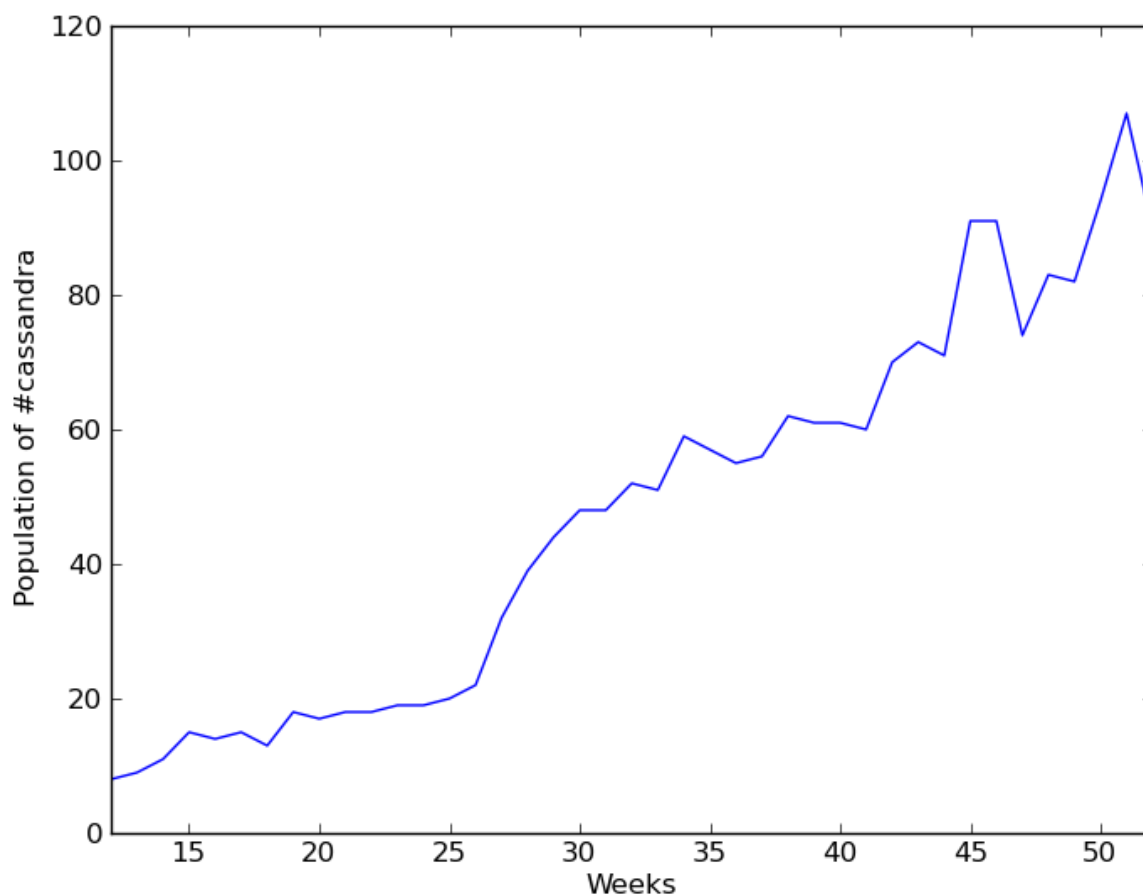

The project's first release was in July; there have since been 8 new releases cut.

IRC Participation

IRC is a popular communication medium in the Cassandra community. Most of the active developers/contributors participate in discussions on #cassandra and field questions from others. This plot shows the average number of people (by week) in #cassandra during 2009.

Other Stuff

- Closed nearly 600 Jira issues
- Selected a project logo, and site design (community vote).
